FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

MARKET REVIEW

June's preliminary US-Iran peace agreement proved the defining market event, triggering a sharp unwinding of geopolitical trades as oil fell, gold shed its safe-haven premium and energy positions were swiftly liquidated. The Strait of Hormuz remains far from resolved, however, and any comfort around supply should be treated as time limited. In sterling terms, European equities led the month with the EURO STOXX rising 3.21%, while China was the notable laggard, falling 5.64% as investors reassessed its growth outlook. Stepping back, 2026 tells a more remarkable story: Asia Pacific has returned 27.89% year to date as the AI-driven semiconductor cycle powered Korean and Taiwanese markets to record highs, and the S&P 500 has delivered 11.49% against a backdrop of war, energy shocks and political uncertainty.

FUND REVIEW

The Passive Growth Fund outperformed its benchmark in June and the strength of that performance extends well beyond the month. With year-to-date and one-year figures both comfortably ahead of the index, the fund has built a compelling track record of consistent outperformance. This is a testament to the quality of index selection and asset allocation within the portfolio, reinforcing that even within a passive framework, the decisions made around construction have a meaningful bearing on outcomes for investors.

RISK WARNINGS

- Past performance is not a guide to future returns.
- The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise, and you may not get back the full amount invested.
- For funds investing globally, currency exchange rate fluctuations may have a positive or negative impact on the value of your investments.
- Changes in interest rates will affect the value of, and the interest earned from, bonds held by the Fund. When interest rates rise, the capital value of the Fund is likely to fall and vice versa.
- The Fund does not use derivatives extensively, although it may use them in an attempt to reduce risk, reduce costs and to generate additional income. Investing in derivatives carries the risk of reduced liquidity, substantial loss and increased volatility in adverse market conditions. Derivatives may expose the Fund to credit risks of counterparties, who may not meet payment obligations. The use of derivatives may result in the Fund being leveraged (where economic exposure and thus the potential for loss by the Fund exceeds the amount it has invested), and in these market conditions the effect of leverage will magnify losses.
- This document is issued by Mattioli Woods Limited and should be read in conjunction with the Fund's Supplementary Information Document. A list of risk factors is detailed in the Supplementary Information Document, and an investment should not be contemplated until the risks are considered fully. Current tax levels and relief are liable to change, and their value will depend on an individual investor's circumstances.
