FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

MARKET REVIEW

The traditional 'Santa Rally', which typically sees equities make gains in the weeks leading up to Christmas Day, failed to fully materialise in 2022. This capped a torrid year for financial markets as asset prices underwent a marked correction in response to central bank monetary tightening and global slowdown fears. 2022 was a year to forget for investors; many equity markets suffered their worst falls since 2008 while some bond markets underwent a double-digit correction. At the outset of the year, few expected inflation to reach 40-year highs with central bankers convinced rising inflation would prove transitory. As consumer prices continued to climb, central banks took interest rates to levels not seen since the global financial crisis – hampering the growth outlook and sending bond yields markedly higher. This global wave of interest rate hikes, allied with the impact of Russia's invasion of Ukraine and China's zero-Covid policy, negatively impacted asset pricing. There were few positives, with some sectors, particularly those pricing in as yet unachieved future growth (rather than profit now), such as technology, suffering most. Commodities, notably energy, were a rare bright spot and those regional markets, including the UK large company segment, with significant exposures to these sectors fared better. Looking ahead there are flickers of optimism, with peak interest rates expected to come as 2023 progresses. That said, corporate earnings will come under pressure in a slowdown so remaining selective in equity positioning remains key. With bond yields significantly higher after the sell-off, opportunities are more prevalent here but again it is important to understand the capability (and willingness) of borrowers to repay. Here's to an improved 2023 for financial markets.

FUND REVIEW

The Fund delivered a marginal positive return this month, pleasing to see during a broadly negative month for financial markets and in stark contrast to the return seen from the benchmark. Our current cautious approach to asset allocation, encompassing a more conservative equity exposure and higher cash weighting than many peers, offset the falls that detrimentally impacted many peers. For now, we retain that outlook on equity, highlighting concern around diminishing corporate earnings that will likely come as a function of a global economic slowdown. However, more recently we have been slowly reducing our cash position to take advantage of emerging opportunities in the fixed income space. Looking at performance of the underlying, many of our diversifiers delivered positively over the month including real assets, physical gold and idiosyncratic positions such as Lazard Rathmore Alternative and Ruffer Diversified Return. These areas provided some compensation for weakness across a broad swathe of equity positions, reinforcing the benefits of holding a varied and often uncorrelated range of return generating assets.

ACTIVITY

There were no asset allocation changes this month and overall activity in the Fund was muted. We slightly tweaked our approach to fixed income, in particular high quality investment grade bonds. Previously we have targeted a specific bond duration (broadly, duration represents how sensitive a bond's price is to changes in interest rates). With bond yields now roughly similar regardless of duration, we have removed this requirement, providing a more flexible approach of interest rate sensitivity. We used inflows to the Fund to top-up existing positions in Fidelity Short Dated Corporate Bond and the Mattioli Woods Property Securities Fund.

RISK WARNINGS

- Past performance is not a guide to future returns.
- The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise, and you may not get back the amount invested.
- For funds investing globally, currency exchange rate fluctuations may have a positive or negative impact on the value of your investments.
- Changes in interest rates will affect the value of, and the interest earned from, bonds held by the Fund. When interest rates rise, the capital value of the Fund is likely to fall and vice versa.
- Investment trusts can borrow money that can then be used to make further investments. In a rising market, this 'gearing' can enhance returns to shareholders. However, if the market falls, losses will be multiplied.
- The Fund does not use derivatives extensively, although it may use them in an attempt to reduce risk, reduce costs and to generate additional income. Investing in derivatives carries the risk of reduced liquidity, substantial loss and increased volatility in adverse market conditions. Derivatives may expose the Fund to credit risks of counterparties, who may not meet payment obligations. The use of derivatives may result in the Fund being leveraged (where economic exposure and thus the potential for loss by the Fund exceeds the amount it has invested), and in these market conditions the effect of leverage will magnify losses.

A list of risk factors is detailed in the Simplified Prospectus, and an investment should not be contemplated until the risks are considered fully. Current tax levels and relief are liable to change, and their value will depend on individual investors' circumstances.
