FUND MANAGER COMMENTARY

MARKET REVIEW

The traditional 'Santa rally', which typically sees equities make gains in the weeks leading up to Christmas Day, failed to fully materialise in 2022. This capped a torrid year for financial markets, as asset prices underwent a marked correction in response to central bank monetary tightening and global slowdown fears. 2022 was a year to forget for investors; many equity markets suffered their worst falls since 2008, while some bond markets underwent a double-digit correction. At the outset of the year, few expected inflation to reach 40-year highs, with central bankers convinced rising inflation would prove transitory. As consumer prices continued to climb, central banks took interest rates to levels not seen since the global financial crisis – hampering the growth outlook and sending bond yields markedly higher. This global wave of interest rate hikes, allied with the impact of Russia's invasion of Ukraine and China's zero-Covid policy, negatively impacted asset pricing. There were few positives, with some sectors, particularly those pricing in as yet unachieved future growth (rather than profit now), such as technology, suffering most. Commodities, notably energy, were a rare bright spot and those regional markets, including the UK large company segment, with significant exposures to these sectors fared better. Looking ahead, there are flickers of optimism, with peak interest rates expected to occur as 2023 progresses. That said, corporate earnings will come under pressure in a slowdown, so remaining selective in equity positioning remains key. With bond yields significantly higher after the sell-off, opportunities are more prevalent here but again it is important to understand the capability (and willingness) of borrowers to repay. Here's to an improved 2023 for financial markets.

FUND REVIEW

While the Fund did generate a negative return for the month, it mitigated the extent of the fall seen from the benchmark. Our current cautious approach to asset allocation, encompassing a more conservative equity exposure and higher cash weighting than many peers, was responsible for much of that cushion. For now, we retain that outlook on equity, highlighting concern around diminishing corporate earnings that will likely come as a function of a global economic slowdown. However, more recently, we have been slowly reducing our cash position to take advantage of emerging opportunities in the fixed income space. Looking at performance of the underlying, diversifiers (including infrastructure and physical gold) delivered a positive return over the month. In addition, a stronger physical gold price helped generate a positive return for our gold miners equity position. These areas provided some compensation for weakness across a broad swathe of equity positions, reinforcing the benefits of holding a varied and often uncorrelated range of return-generating assets.

ACTIVITY

Continuing a theme seen in prior months, we increased our fixed income allocation once more in December. Like November, we added to our investment grade bond exposure via an associated reduction in cash. Bond yields presently offer improved value, after moving notably higher through the year. We do remain conscious of interest rate sensitivity (in a period of heightened inflation) when investing in investment grade bonds, which, at an index level, bring an element of this risk. Our asset allocation recognises this and, as such, adds no requirement to hold a specific level of bond duration (broadly, how sensitive a bond's price is to changes in interest rate). With bond yields roughly similar regardless of duration, we introduced a position in short duration bonds via the Legal & General Short Dated Sterling Corporate Bond Index Fund – duration here is around half that of standard investment grade indices, so we can mitigate overall interest rate risk.

FUND AIM

The investment objective of the Fund is to preserve capital and generate capital growth (the increase in value of investments) over an investment term in excess of five years and to generate income (money paid out by an investment, such as interest from a bond or a dividend from a share). It is not guaranteed that the Fund will achieve its objective of capital preservation. Capital growth will be prioritised over income generation.

INVESTMENT PHILOSOPHY

This Fund uses a global multi-asset approach to deliver its aim of generating long-term capital growth. The managers will achieve this aim by utilising passive solutions, typically index trackers, while closely managing volatility. The asset allocation of the Fund will be managed in line with guidance provided by the Mattioli Woods Asset Allocation Committee, ensuring diversity of assets.

RISK WARNINGS

- Past performance is not a guide to future returns.
- The value of investments and the income from them can fall as well as rise, and you may not get back the amount invested.
- For funds investing globally, currency exchange rate fluctuations may have a positive or negative impact on the value of your investments.
- Changes in interest rates will affect the value of, and the interest earned from, bonds held by the Fund. When interest rates rise, the capital value of the Fund is likely to fall and vice versa.
- The Fund does not use derivatives extensively, although it may use them in an attempt to reduce risk, reduce costs and to generate additional income. Investing in derivatives carries the risk of reduced liquidity, substantial loss and increased volatility in adverse market conditions. Derivatives may expose the Fund to credit risks of counterparties, who may not meet payment obligations. The use of derivatives may result in the Fund being leveraged (where economic exposure and thus the potential for loss by the Fund exceeds the amount it has invested), and in these market conditions the effect of leverage will magnify losses.
